They come in all shapes and sizes and can be found in a variety of places.

Jot Thoughts

*Students use All Write Roundtable and sticky notes to generate ideas. May need to adapt for younger students, they call out their idea and get thumbs up from team before they can write/draw on sticky note.

Noun and verb Cards

Partners are given cards and generate sentences together using the correct Verb tense.

* Can also be done independently or at a learning station

I use flashcards that I found at www.kids-pages.com, they have cards for nouns, verbs, places, adjectives, ...literally thousands!! I like to use these cards because they have a picture AND the word written on the bottom, gives kids that extra spelling support. I also printed mine out on the correct grammar color cardstock- orange nouns, blue verbs, and green prepositions for the places, etc.

Mix AND PASS

Mix around the room to the music

Trade cards with everyone you meet,
then keep moving

When the music stops, form a group that contains one Orange, one Blue, and one Green card.

Each team generates a silly sentence using the information on their cards.

Show Me

Use during Verb Tense Study or students choose words from Grammar Wall

- A's choose a subject to write on whiteboards
- B's choose a verb to write on whiteboards
- Call one of each to front with boards,
- Class creates a sentence to record on chart paper.
