

ADE's Education Transformation: Implementing Arizona's education reforms

The Arizona Education and Learning Accountability System (AELAS) will enable parents, teachers, administrators and policy makers to make smart, effective and efficient decisions affecting student outcomes.

★ Actionable, real-time data for policy makers

By June 2016, full School Finance replacement will allow policy makers to ask what if questions regarding state funding changes and get answers quickly.

By FY2018 track student achievement past secondary education and correlate that back to their school(s) and teachers.

★ Empowering parents to make informed educational choices for their students

By June 2016, parents can access every Arizona district/charter historical performance on standardized tests, student body characteristics, numbers of highly effective teachers, absenteeism rates, etc. to further enable effective school choice.

★ Tools teachers need to increase student achievement in the classroom

By June 2015 provide access to videos and learning aides to ensure every teacher has the tools they need to become highly effective teachers.

Provide every educator, by the start of the 2016 school year, timely data about each student so teachers can more rapidly and fully prepare at the start of the school year and to monitor progress during the year.

Access to opt-in teaching materials that enhance lesson plans and that address learning issues by class subject or by student starting in FY2015.

"It is vital that we have information that is accurate, current and accessible."

- Myriam M. Roa, Superintendent, Phoenix Elementary School District
