Review of Household Applications and Verification

SECTION 1

Free & Reduced-Price Meals

All schools participating in the National School Lunch Program (NSLP) and School Breakfast Program (SBP) are required to make free and reduced-price meals available to eligible children. Each household enrolled in the school participating in the NSLP and SBP is able to apply for meal benefits using household applications.

Households will complete the application for free and reduced-price meals provided by the school food authority (SFA) to record household and income information. Using the Income Eligibility Guidelines (IEGs), schools will determine if the household can receive free or reduced-price benefits.

Verifying Student Eligibility

Each SFA must annually verify the eligibility of children from a sample of household applications approved for free and reduced-price meal benefits for that school year. Verification is the process where school officials will confirm if the self-reported information on a household application was accurately provided by the household.

For example, SFAs must confirm household income or confirm that the child is included in a household that is certified to receive SNAP, TANF or FDPIR benefits through an eligible case number that was provided on the application by the household.

Please note not all applications must be verified, but a sample based on the most current Verification Non-Response Rate Report is required to be randomly selected.

For more information on verifying student eligibility, visit HNS's Online Training Library.

Verification Sampling Method

DETERMINING YOUR CALCULATION METHOD

SFAs must review the Verification Non-Response Rate Report to determine which sampling method (Standard, Alternative 1: Random Sampling, or Alternative 2: Focused Sampling) can be used to calculate the number of applications subject to Verification. This will help determine if error-prone applications must be documented.

- COPPER: SFAs may choose from any of the three sampling methods
- RED or NO HIGHLIGHT: SFAs with red or no highlight must use the Standard Sampling Method and determine Error-Prone applications.

Verification Non-Response Rate Report

Please remember this report will be updated each year and it is the SFAs responsibility to check the report to ensure the correct sampling method is implemented.

Verification Sampling Method

DETERMINING YOUR CALCULATION METHOD

On the Non-Response Rate Report, Local Educational Agency (LEA) names highlighted in copper reported at least 80% of the households selected for verification the previous year responded to the verification request. Because their response rate was so high, they qualify to use an alternate sampling method for the current year’s verification process and can choose from the Standard Sampling, Alternate 1, or Alternate 2 sampling methods.

LEAs who do not qualify to use an alternate method will be shown in red or white and must use the Standard Sampling method.

- B The LEA will be shown in white on the Non-Response Rate Report.
- C It will be indicated on the LEA's last claim in CNPWeb.

Each year, ADE HNS releases the Non-Response Rate Report. LEAs qualifying for an alternative sampling method will be highlighted in copper.

Sampling Methods & Error-Prone Applications

As indicated on the ADE Non-Response Rate Report, LEAs who do not qualify to use an alternate sampling method must use the Standard Sampling.

As indicated on the Non-Response Rate Report, LEAs who qualify to use an alternate sampling method can choose from:

- Standard Sampling
- Alternate 1: Random Sampling
- Alternate 2: Focused Sampling

Applications identified as error-prone are chosen first when using the Standard Sampling or Alternate 2: Focused Sampling methods.

Because error-prone applications are on the cusp of being certified as a different eligibility, they are required to be selected for verification before applications that are not error-prone.

- If the LEA did not find error-prone applications or their sample size was higher than the number of error-prone applications on file, the LEA can then select from applications that are not error-prone when using Standard Sampling or Alternate 2: Focused Sampling.

Full guidance on the calculation sampling methods can be found in ADE's Online Course: Verification Review. The remainder of this training will cover step-by-step guidance on how to identify applications that are error-prone for the use of verification.

Error-Prone Applications

SECTION 2

Error-Prone Applications

Household applications are error-prone if the application is within $100 per month of the applicable IEGs. This will vary depending on the income frequency of the application.

- Applicable IEG: the income range for either reduced-price or free meal benefits used to certify applications based on self-reported household size and income.

Once the application is processed and certified by the SFA, the application will be checked for error-prone status using the Error-Prone Guidelines for the current year. Please note this worksheet changes annually to align with the current year’s IEGs.

Error-Prone Guidelines

Identifying Error-Prone Applications

REQUIREMENT

Error-prone applications must be identified for those LEAs who are using the Standard Sampling or Alternate 2: Focused Sampling methods.

BEST PRACTICES

It is a best practice to always check income applications for error-prone status, but it is mandatory for LEAs who are not receiving administrative relief through the Non-Response Rate Report or for those who do receive administrative relief but have chosen Alternate 2: Focused Sampling.

It is a best practice to identify applications that are error-prone at the same time as the SFA certifies applications for meal benefits. If the SFA chooses to wait to do this during the process of verification, it could exceed the timeline of verification reports and deadlines.

Quiz Time

Who is required to identify applications that are error-prone?

- A All LEAs.
- B LEAs who receive administrative relief based on the Non-Response Rate Report.
- C LEAs who are using Alternate 1: Random Sampling.
- D LEAs who are using Standard Sampling or Alternate 2: Focused Sampling.

Quiz Time

Who is required to identify applications that are error-prone?

- B LEAs who receive administrative relief based on the Non-Response Rate Report.
- C LEAs who are using Alternate 1: Random Sampling.
- D LEAs who are using Standard Sampling or Alternate 2: Focused Sampling.

Although it is a best practice for all LEAs to check for error-prone applications during the processing of all income applications, it is only mandatory for LEAs who are using Standard Sampling or Alternate 2: Focused Sampling to identify applications that are error-prone.

Error-Prone Applications

PROCESS OF REVIEWING APPLICATIONS

1. Collect Applications

First, collect applications that have been certified for free and reduced-price benefits based on household size and income by the Determining Official.

2. Compare Income to Error-Prone Guidelines

On the Error-Prone chart, find the frequency and household size under the free or reduced-price table. If the income falls within the range listed, it is considered to be an error-prone application. If the income is below the range, it is not error-prone.

3. Indicate Error-Prone on Application (if applicable)

If an application is determined as error-prone, return to the household application and check the Error Prone box found on the application in the Office Use Only section.

4. Update your BID

The application processing is now complete, and the SFA will update their Benefit Issuance Document (BID).

The application selected was certified by the Designated Official as free based on IEGs and a household size of four with a monthly income of $1,000.

3. Indicate Error-Prone on Application (if applicable)

This application is not error-prone, therefore, the application processing is now complete, and the SFA will update their Benefit Issuance Document (BID).
