

Are student email addresses tied to your school's version of Clever?

Yes: Great! Students will be able to see any information previously entered into My Future AZ. Please keep in mind that students may have entered information incorrectly into the web browser version of My Future AZ that would keep them from seeing previous information.

No: Clever auto-generates a dummy email address for new users that don't have an email address associated with their system. This means that the email created by Clever won't match the emails associated with My Future AZ, preventing students from being able to see any information they previously entered into the system. This includes interest assessments, post-secondary planning, and profile information.

We recommend waiting until next year to begin implementing Clever if students have already logged in or registered for this school year.

We are not currently able to merge accounts using the dummy email address provided by Clever, but we can work with your team to delete previous accounts created through the web-browser version as you move forward using Clever.

Students should add an email address through their settings the moment they register with Clever so that they can access and update their profile through other versions of the platform (pipelineaz.com).

Ready to get started using Clever?

Please let us know who operates Clever for your school and/or district and we can send them an invite to provide access to the My Future AZ Clever app. Once launched from your side, counselors and students will be able to access My Future AZ using the Clever app.

Schools will still need an administrator account before getting started with My Future AZ. Administrators are able to create graduation requirements and school pages. They are also able to access various reports showing students' use of the system. Contact myfutureaz@azed.gov or complete this form to get an administrator account for your school today, and let us know whether you are using Clever!
