

LEXILE PROFESSIONAL DEVELOPMENT

Workshops that put Lexiles to work for you and your students

This year, more than 20 million students will receive a Lexile® measure from a state or classroom assessment or instructional reading program.

Lexile Professional Development teaches you what the measures mean and inspires you with the confidence and ability to integrate The Lexile Framework® for Reading into your own curriculum. That is why school administrators, teachers, reading specialists, librarians and other education professionals have turned to Lexile Professional Development to learn how they can use Lexiles to inform instruction and improve achievement for all students.

Lexile Professional Development helps put the Lexile Framework to work for you and your students. Our Master Facilitators empower you with the knowledge and skills to implement the Lexile Framework in your classroom, library/media center and at home. Our interactive workshops demonstrate how you can use Lexile measures—and the tools that leverage the Lexile Framework—to:

- Achieve your instructional and curricular objectives
- Match students to appropriately challenging texts, across grades and content areas
- Differentiate instruction and manage comprehension
- Track reading progress and set achievable goals
- Map day-to-day progress to desired results on high-stakes tests
- Communicate with parents about students' reading progress and goals
- Meet federal, state and district requirements for student performance and growth

Plus, Lexile Professional Development employs a collaborative, “train-the-trainer” model that enables you to share best practices for using Lexiles with your colleagues. Workshop participants complete our training with a contagious excitement for Lexiles that they are eager to spread to everyone in their school, district and state.
